

METHOD OF MANUFACTURE OF RE-ENFORCED SHEET PILING SEGMENTS

Abstract

A method of manufacturing re-enforced sheet piling segments is disclosed. The method includes pulling the fibers of the sheet through a bath of a polyurethane-based material. Next, the fibers are woven into a matrix and formed into a sheet piling segment in a die. Finally, the sheet piling segment is cured to harden the material.